

This is appalling! I am a paying customer for a service. Shouldn't I expect to get the most of it. Why is the FCC getting in the way? Government's charter is to protect the many, if harmed by the few. There is no harm in having XM radio offer traffic and weather information to it's customers. This is suppose to be a country where freedom of choice should dominate. Regulating the ability for an alternate means of broadcasting is minimizing my ability to choose my options.

I turned to XM because I was annoyed at listen to advertisements and commercials most of my morning commute. So, I decided to "pay" to remove commercials during this time and subscribe to XM. However, living in the most densely populated state instant traffic updates are essential in my everyday daily commute. Why should I and many other XM subscribers be FORCED! to listen to alternate local radio stations to get our information.

As an XM subscriber I am depending on you to not waste your time on this issue. We have a lot more pressing issues facing this country. Let's stop governing on the basis that a few multi-billionaire radio monopoly's may be affected and do what is right...for the people and let the country get back to addressing real issues.
